To reinforce the Sales Team – Valves & Regulators, we are currently looking for an enthusiastic (m/f):

INSIDE SALES ENGINEER

Future Outside Sales Engineer

Following an intensive training period, you will ensure the technical and commercial development and follow-up of quotations, orders, contracts and all related issues of our clients in the WALLUX area. You will acquire and maintain a sound knowledge of the division and its products, their use, users and applications. You will receive a variety of technical questions and cases for which you will have to find the most efficient solution. In general you will function as an interface between all internal groups to assure professional business relationships with the customers. Frequently you will be in communication with customers and other Emerson Process Management factories and back-offices worldwide. You will report to the Sales Manager Valves & Regulators and work closely with the outside sales engineers.

Profile:

You have obtained with success a masters degree in Electronic or Electromechanical Engineering or equivalent. You have a background or a strong interest in a similar function and/or working environment. Knowledge of automation or instrumentation is a plus but not a must! You are able to communicate effectively in an international environment and you have excellent interpersonal skills. Open minded and flexible, you can negotiate and finalize technical matters. You are fluent in French and English. Dutch is nice to have.

Offer :

Emerson Process Management offers you various career opportunities in an international environment. You will work in a professional, pleasant and dynamic working environment with flexible hours. You will receive extended training. Furthermore to valorise your knowledge and efforts, you will receive an attractive salary including other benefits. The longer term aim is to become outside sales engineer.

Do you want to work in a flexible, dynamic high-tech environment?
